With nourishing & well-tolerated organic almond oil

- Used for generations & very skin-friendly – almond oil is a great choice especially for those with dry skin
- Mono- & polyunsaturated fatty acids gently nourish and protect the skin<sup>1</sup>
  - A high oleic acid content ensures soft and supple skin
  - Skin-active linoleic acid has a positive effect on dry skin
- Renewable, biodegradable and therefore also eco-friendly

How does HiPP produce its organic almond oil?

For our organic almond oil, we use ripe sweet almonds known as “pinchados”. The almond harvest in Spain and Italy takes place in August, after which the almonds are brought to Germany for further processing. We screen the almond kernels and select those of the highest quality, which are then cold pressed and filtered. The almonds are pressed mechanically. By filtering the oil, we can remove all unwanted protein components. Only these purifying processes can guarantee consistent product quality and, above all, product safety.

HiPP skincare for face and body

Babies' skin is very sensitive and therefore needs particularly gentle products. The right skincare helps to protect their skin from external influences and strengthens their skin barrier.<sup>1</sup>

HiPP products for washing and bathing

When washing and bathing babies, you should only use gentle products that were specially developed for them.<sup>2</sup>

Neurodermatitis is the most common skin condition in children. Regular skincare with suitable products is an essential part of basic treatment.

Our HiPP skincare products have been dermatologically tested and are therefore also suitable for skin that is prone to neurodermatitis.*

* This applies to the following products: HiPP Head to Toe Baby Wash, HiPP Baby Bath, HiPP Baby Shampoo, HiPP Moisturising Cream, HiPP Ultra Moisturising Lotion, HiPP Good Night Bath, HiPP Wind & Weather Balm

What is HiPP doing for nature?

HiPP Babysanft and Mamasanft are free from microplastics and, thanks to improved formulations, also free from liquid polymers.*

What exactly are microplastics and liquid polymers?

In the public debate, the terms microplastics and liquid polymers are often used synonymously.

- The term microplastics refers to undissolved solid particles that are smaller than 5 millimetres. In cosmetic products, they serve as abrasive particles in scrubs or shower gels, for example.
- In contrast to microplastics, liquid polymers are not solid particles but liquid constituents of a product. They are used in cosmetic products, for example, as a stabiliser.

How do microplastics and liquid polymers enter the environment?

* except HiPP Shower Cream; HiPP Ultra Moisturising Lotion:
We continue working on our formulations in order to completely exclude liquid polymers.

HiPP protects our environment!

By using more sustainable packaging:

- High level of recyclability of product packaging (90% on average)
- Since 2020, our HiPP Babysanft bottles have been up to 14% lighter, which saves carbon during transport as well as packaging material.

By producing climate-neutrally:

- We use 100% green electricity*
- We support global climate protection projects

HiPP's 2025 sustainable packaging goal

- Less packaging material

In the future, we want to continue our effort in further reducing the amount of packaging material used. What's not there does not have to be disposed of!

- Maximum recyclability

For used packaging to be turned into something new, the recyclability of the packaging must be as high as possible. In this way, we want to make all our packaging materials as recyclable as our jars by 2025.

- More recycled packaging materials

Our next step: using recycled plastic. To protect your little ones, HiPP attaches great importance to the safety of the materials used in all its packaging. For example, recycled plastics may be used in our packaging only if we can be sure that they do not contain anything harmful. Recycled cardboard is already used for folding boxes and shipping cartons.

Skincare recommendations for healthy infant skin

compiled by the Department of Dermatology at the Charité – Universitätsmedizin Berlin. Evidence-based scientific recommendations for a general skincare regime for healthy infant skin during the first year of life.<sup>1</sup>

Bathing

Start bathing the newborn as soon as their body temperature has stabilised.

Do so on a regular basis (2-3 times a week).

Bath duration & temperature

Duration: 5-10 minutes (for newborns); water temperature: 37-37.5°C; air temperature: 21-24°C.

Bath additives

Only use mild, liquid bath additives (no soap) that are specifically developed for babies, or use no bath additive at all.

After bathing, wrap the baby in a towel straight away and gently pat them dry so they don't get cold.

Afterwards, you can apply some baby cream or lotion as mild baby skincare products can promote their skin's protective barrier.

Correct cleansing & skincare of the nappy area

Cleansing

Use either wet wipes or washcloths and water. Cleansing the nappy area with wet wipes dries out the skin less than using water and a washcloth.<sup>2</sup> With heavy soiling, water alone is not enough to hygienically clean the nappy area.<sup>3</sup> A bath with mild, liquid bath additives cleanses gently and is also beneficial for infant skin.<sup>4</sup>

Skincare

After cleansing: optional application of a nappy rash cream. Nappy rash creams: Lipophilic creams based on a water-in-oil emulsion (W/O) protect against moisture and irritation → water-repellent exterior.

In case of fungal or bacterial infection, please note: Use wash cloths/clothes only once and wash using hot water. Use special antifungal or antibacterial soaps → see a doctor!

HiPP toddler range

Showering, bathing or washing their hair can be a challenge with many toddlers.

The HiPP Babysanft range for toddlers was developed to add a bit of fun to everyday routines such as washing and bathing, helping parents and caretakers to make these activities as playful as possible.

What's special about this range? We developed our toddler range according to the same principles that we apply to our entire HiPP Babysanft range:

As little as possible, as much as necessary.

What makes our Natural Wet Wipes so eco-friendly?

- Most wet wipes on the market are made of synthetic fibres that are non-biodegradable and therefore a potential environmental burden.
- An eco-friendly, plastic-free, cellulose-based wipe, which can be processed into either viscose or lyocell.
- However, viscose requires more chemical input than lyocell.
- HiPP Natural Wet Wipes are made from the cellulose blend lyocell, which is the result of a special mechanical spinning process. This process even allows for the solvent to be reused.
